SOCIETY

Notes and Personal—

Mrs. H. C. Conway entertained very delightfully on Thursday afternoon with a theatre party complimentary to Mrs. J. P. Hennessy of Madisonville. The honoree, who was formerly Miss Ella Price, was a very popular student at Bryan Baptist Academy several years ago, and during this time was a roommate of Mrs. Conway. The reunion of the two is very pleasant. After the pleasure of the motion pictures, an aftermath provided was an ice course at a popular parlor. The remainder of the afternoon was enjoyably spent in motoring. Guests present were Messrs. Hennessy, A. M. Waldrop, E. H. Astin, W. B. Cline, H. C. Conway.

A pleasant reunion of the Senior class of 1916 of Bryan High School was held at the hospitable home of Miss Fern Danaby on Thursday evening, furnishing an opportunity for these classmates to be together again before the departure of the members to universities and colleges.

The spacious green lawn proved the most inviting spot for the evening, and after several hours of unalloyed pleasure, a picnic lunch was served and the happy boys and girls departed for their homes.

Miss Mary James has been the guest of relatives and friends in Houston for several weeks, and during this visit has been the recipient of much social attention. Miss James returned home last Tuesday.

Mrs. Lavinia De Ware of Houston, who is visiting Mrs. J. W. Batts, was the honoree Tuesday evening of a delightfully pleasant picnic enjoyed at the Old Fish Pond. Besides the chaplain, Mrs. J. W. Batts, the personnel included Misses Ada Board, Aline Rohde, Della Lawrence, Mrs. Lavinia De Ware, Messrs. Tom White of Jasper, John Vick, A. S. Adams and Albert Kinnard.

A delightfully informal dance was enjoyed Tuesday evening at the Elks' club rooms by the young people, with a large assemblage of married people as additional guests. There were no decorations, but the large windows were wide open, making the hall pleasantly cool. A six-piece orchestra furnished splendid music for the usual number of dances. The out-of-town guests present were Misses May Bell Allen, Frances Allen and Katherine Tolbert of Calvert, who motored over for the evening.

Mrs. Tyler Haswell and daughter, Miss Ara, returned last night from Asheville, N. C., where they have spent the past several weeks. They stopped en route home for a few days' visit at Houston and Harlem.

Mrs. J. P. Hennessy of Madisonville, whose brief visit to her sister, Mrs. W. B. Cline, has been attended by a round of delightful hospitalities, returned to her home today.

Dancing Party—

Mr. and Mrs. P. S. Tilson will have as their guests this week Messrs. William Wade and Merton Wade of Texarkana, who are home on vacation leave from the U. S. S. Wisconsin. On Friday evening Mr. and Mrs. Tilson will give a dance in compliment to the visitors and Messrs. Mary and Winifred Bain and Messrs. John and Allen Carr.—Houston Chronicle.

In Honor of Mrs. De Ware—

Among the many informal events arranged this week to compliment Mrs. Lavinia De Ware was the swimming party of Thursday evening, chaperoned by Messrs. Emmett Cole of Fort Worth, J. W. Batts and S. C. Williams. The crowd left late in the afternoon and motored to the big Brazos river. Here they were joined by Mr. and Mrs. M. W. Sims and daughter, Miss Kathleen.

After a delightful plunge in the water a delicious picnic lunch was served on the bank of the river.

Present besides the chaperones were Misses Rowena Rhodes, Hazel Adams, Nell Cole, Irene Board, Aline Rohde, Erin Blatherwick, Della Lawrence, Mrs. Lavinia De Ware, Messrs. Will Saunders, O. S. Johnson, W. J. Coulter, Tom White of Jasper, John Vick, A. S. Adams, Stone, and Master Joe Batts, Jr.

Miss Eugene Edge Entertained—

When vacation days are almost over, the social activities among those who must respond to the call of the school bell, are very much increased, inasmuch as they are desirous of crowding into the few remaining days pleasures derived from various diversions.

The members of the Little Misses' Club were afforded the enjoyment of one of these happy occasions when, on Wednesday afternoon, Miss Eugene Edge entertained them with a rook party. Promptly at the hour named the little guests assembled at the home, where everything had been arranged that they might be the participants of a merry party, and the hours spent proved to afford all that the little hostess had desired.

The games were progressive and at the conclusion of them Miss Onah Astin was found to hold the highest score and was presented with a dainty crepe-de-chine handkerchief. Miss Helen Moore received the booby prize and was given a bottle of "ketchup" with the following presentation:

"Fourteens, tens and fives you had in a lump,

But your opponent seized them with a trump.

On reds you bid to show your pluck, But trumps were stacked. Oh, what luck!"

"But we'll not remember your score, And hope next time that you'll wine more.

All the counters then snatch up, As this will help you to 'catch up.'"

The guests were served with cream and cake and departed happy and joyful, giving the hostess the assurance that the time had been most enjoyably spent.

Miss De Maret Complimented—

Miss Helen De Maret, whose approaching marriage to Mr. Floyd Young of Blooming Grove is a matter of much interest, was delightfully complimented Tuesday morning when the bridge club of which she is a member entertained with a bridge luncheon in her honor at the home of Mrs. M. L. Parker.

Choice summer blossoms were utilized in the home embellishment, and several interesting games of bridge were thoroughly enjoyed.

In the dining room, where luncheon was served, the decorative effects were in pink and white. The table was exceedingly beautiful in its rich appointments. Lovely lace center and doilies were upon the board and the central position thereon was assigned a white basket, tied with pink mauline and filled with roses of both pink and white petaling. As a special souvenir to the sweet honoree, she was presented with a French dressing cut glass bottle from the club and much regret expressed at her early departure to make her home in another city.

Miss De Maret, the daughter of Mr. and Mrs. D. C. De Maret, is one of Bryan's most accomplished and charming girls, with a rare sweetness and grace of manner which has endeared her to a wide circle of friends since childhood.

An Announcement Party—

One of the most beautiful events of the season, planned on novel and artistic lines, was the miscellaneous shower given Tuesday afternoon by the Bachelor Girls' Club at the home of Miss Louise Batts to compliment Miss Helen De Maret, a prospective bride of the month, and the fact that the hospitality developed in a surprise matrimonial announcement gave additional interest and charm to the afternoon, as it made known the engagement and approaching marriage of Miss Louise Batts to Mr. P. G. Gunter of A. and M. College.

Although Dame Rumor has pleasantly associated the names of the two young people, the formal announcement of Tuesday will be a universal surprise, and the wedding in November will be of cordial interest to hosts of friends, as both young people enjoy an unusual popularity.

Besides the members of the Bachelor Girls' Club, of which social organization Misses De Maret and Batts are favorite members, additional friends were asked and this double hospitality furnished an opportunity for the merry crowd of girls to get together for the first time in several months.

This lovely home was radiantly beautiful in floral dress for the event. In the spacious entrance hall quantities of blossoms gave pink color effects, the same color tones being emphasized in the music room adornment, which was contributed by roses in handsome vases and other receptacles of artistic design.

Dainty white booklets were passed which contained a clever story of Miss De Maret's love romance. The blank spaces in the booklet were to be filled by names of songs, which were played on the piano by Mrs. A. Miller.

At the conclusion Misses Lella Law and Pauline Davis, attractively attired in white frocks over pink, rolled back the sliding doors leading to the dining room, where the scheme of decoration manifested perfect taste and effectiveness.

Beneath a crystal electric dome the shower of gifts was arranged in prettily wrapped packages on the large dining table around a center arrangement of lavender blossoms, and these, on being unwrapped by the attractive bride-elect, Miss De Maret, proved to be a bewildering array of handsome gifts, each conveying a sweet, silent message from the heart of a friend. The bride-elect then, in very touching and appropriate words, thanked each and all for the affection they had manifested on this occasion.

Concluding the shower a refreshment course featuring the pink color motif was served by Mrs. Batts, who was assisted by her daughter, after which the guests were again invited to the music room. The guests then began to be suspicious and felt it was evident that another significance was connected with the pleasures of the hour, and the anxious inquisitiveness of the guests became intense.

A white basket arranged with white blossoms and mauline and containing numbered envelopes was then passed. Each guest was asked a question on love and if answered correctly, was asked to give the answer to the riddle concealed in the envelope. These were read in numerical order, and when the number twenty-four was called, Mrs. M. A. Miller, with an ap-

Mrs. Cline Entertains for Mrs. Hennessy—

Mrs. J. P. Hennessy of Madisonville was the honor guest yesterday morning of a highly enjoyable forty-two party, when her sister, Mrs. W. B. Cline, in reunion assembled a number of Mrs. Hennessy's former schoolmates. A few other married friends were additional guests.

The red color tones were favored for the home embellishment, and roses were the chosen blossoms, being beautifully arranged in crystal and wicker receptacles. Six tables were arranged for the pleasant pastime of six-handed forty-two, and a series of interesting games made the morning a round of pleasure. An appetizing salad course, with cherry ice, was served on the game tables at the close of the games.
